The football field at the University of Ottawa's Sports Complex echoed with yips and barks Thursday as three teams of sled dogs paid a visit for Snow Fest. Mushier Eric Robertson, owner of Nordik Adventures in Val-Des-Monts, put the huskies through their paces all week. It was the fourth straight year the dogs have visited the university, giving students the chance to take the reins for sled trips around the snow-packed field.

Health Canada Approved Treatments Book Your Free Consultation Today!

For many years, the Canadian Decompression and Pain Centers (CDPC) have been successfully treating chronic low back and neck pain using a uniquely developed treatment protocol called Neuro-Decompression. This revolutionary treatment procedure has consistently achieved great results at CDPC locations throughout Canada. Results are usually long lasting. Referrals come from surgeons, medical doctors, and other health care professionals across the country, but referral is not required (you can contact us directly). Neuro-Decompression is a three-phased system that was developed by CDPC doctors.

To determine if you are a candidate for treatment at CDPC:
Book a FREE consultation. Bring your MRI, CT Scans, or X-Rays, as they are usually conclusive.
Some tests may be performed on site if you have not previously had any.

The following three phases at CDPC are performed simultaneously during a patient's treatment.

Phase 1: Vertebral Decompression System

Vertebral Decompression involves the use of a specially designed table attached to an advanced bio-feedback computer module. During consultation, specific parameters for each patient are factored into developing a customized treatment plan, consisting of the number of sessions required, and their frequency. The computerized technology allows the table to pull and decompress the spine by making mechanical changes comfortably. Most patients find the treatment relaxing and read magazines or listen to music during treatment.

Phase 2: Oxygen Enhancement (Certain Patients Only)

This second phase of the system offers patients the unique combination of inhaling pure grade oxygen (up to 92%) during the procedure. The basis of this phase is to relax the patient. It also encourages healing of the joint and disc. Oxygen also provides relief from muscle stiffness caused by the build-up of lactic acid.

Phase 3: Neuro-Nutrition

The third phase is where a patient is given a premium herbal pain reliever in capsule form, developed by CDPC. The patient is also given a nutritional detoxification drink to expedite the healing of joints and discs, which play an important role in the repair of damaged discs and joints.

Frequently Asked Questions

What conditions is the system used for?

This system is excellent for any type of neurological condition, or disc and joint problem. Neck and Back problems are the most commonly treated.

Is the treatment affordable?

Consultations are free. Senior discounts are also available. Patients may be subsidized if in financial difficulty. If you have been involved in an auto accident, you may receive full funding from your auto insurance company.

Are the benefits to this treatment short term or long term?

Long term. The purpose of this procedure is to "counter" the damage incurred by aging, injury, or wear and tear, when your condition improves, you will no longer have pain.

Woman charged in string of robberies

A 56-year-old Ottawa woman is facing 37 charges after police say she slashed the tires of parked cars belonging to women and then robbed her female victims while pretending to help.

Police say they caught the woman after receiving a tip about strange behaviour and then following the suspect. Louise Menard is charged with theft, mischief and possession of stolen property in relation to 18 incidents.

► Son of former cabinet minister faces charges of impaired driving in Christmas Eve death of friend ► Case adjourned until Feb. 10

The son of former Newfoundland premier and federal cabinet minister Brian Tobin made his first court appearance Thursday since he was charged in connection with the Christmas Eve death of his best friend.

John Joseph Tobin, known as Jack, appeared briefly in an Ottawa court to have his bail conditions amended before the matter was adjourned for two weeks.

Tobin faces two impaired-driving charges and one dangerous-driving charge in connection with the incident which left his longtime friend Alex Zolpis dead.

The two had gone to high school and university together.

Tobin was arrested after police were called to a downtown parking garage in response to reports a man was pinned under a truck.

He was released on $100,000 bail on Christmas Day.

Tobin's lawyer says a condition that he must appear in court for all legal matters has now been lifted.

"It's a very tragic case and (with) extended media on every appearance, bringing him and his family into court seems unnecessary and not in the normal course," Norman Boxall told reporters outside the courthouse.

He declined to get into the details of the case, saying the only appropriate place for those comments was before the judge.

Other conditions of Tobin's bail included staying away from alcohol and living with his parents.

They were both in court as well on Thursday, flanking their son as he sat quietly during the short proceedings.

As they exited, the 24-year-old held the door open for spectators.

The family left court together but did not speak to the media.

His next court date was set for Feb. 10.

Attackers don't intend on using guns, expert says

In the wake of the gun-point abduction, sexual assault and release of a Barrhaven teen last week, self-defence experts are warning Ottawa residents never to approach or get in a strange vehicle even if an attacker pulls a gun.

"Once you are pulled into a vehicle, the stakes are a lot higher and the chances of escaping that situation alive are a lot slimmer," said Elsy David, program director of Women's Initiatives for Safer Environments (WISE), a local group that holds personal seminars and advises architects and planners on ways to design safer environments.

Pipe burst causes evacuation

Residents of a Riverside Drive highrise were forced to evacuate the building Wednesday evening after a water pipe burst and started flooding the 12th floor.

The broken valve caused minimal damage and all residents have been allowed back into the building, said Minto vice-president of operations, Doug Brunsdon. He said residents were offered temporary housing Wednesday night and that repairs on the building elevators were ongoing on Thursday. ● JOE LOFARO

METRO WORLD LEADERS EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

'All we want is a state of our own': Salam Fayyad

- ▶ Palestinian National Authority plans to declare an independent state in August
- ▶ Prime Minister Salam Fayyad will ask the UN General Assembly for recognition
- ▶ The former World Bank economist is turning the West Bank into a thriving, peaceful area

ELISABETH BRAW
METRO WORLD NEWS

He's the prime minister of the Palestinian National Authority. But to travel between his office in Ramallah and his Jerusalem home, Dr. Salam Fayyad must pass Israeli military checkpoints.

That soon may change. Later this year, Fayyad, an economist and former World Bank official, will ask the UN General Assembly to recognize Palestinian statehood. Fayyad has already transformed Ramallah, the Palestinians' provisional capital, into a thriving city that features international banks and even five-star hotels. In fact, Fayyad is building an unofficial country that he hopes will show the world that Palestinians can govern themselves — and do so peacefully.

Metro met Fayyad at his office in Ramallah.

Are you trying to catapult the Palestinians into a Middle Eastern role model?

All we want is a state of our own. Our right to freedom has always been seen as something we somehow have to earn, which is unfair. But if we can show the world a stable Palestine with a well-functioning infrastructure that provides reliable services to its residents, we'll have created the reality of a state. It will be very hard for the world to ignore it.

Will I be able to call you prime minister of Palestine in September?

You'll be able to call someone prime minister. I'll be the first person to congratulate him or her on becoming the first prime minister of Palestine. We've been waiting for this for so long ... We have to keep up the positive dynamic we've started; we have to keep being persistent to create positive change every day to enable the state of Palestine to be born.

Are you certain it will happen?

Yes. In August 2009, we set ourselves the goal of Palestinian statehood in

PALESTINIAN NATIONAL AUTHORITY
PRIME MINISTER SALAM FAYYAD

August 2011, and here we are. I have no Plan B or Plan C. We have only this plan and we think it's going to work. In order for it to happen, we Palestinians have to believe in it. It's that sense of inevitability we're trying to create by determination and perseverance. If you don't have a timeline, you don't have a good plan. We're working on the ground to get fully ready for the state of Palestine.

What will the geography of Palestine look like?

It will comprise Gaza and the West Bank, and the West Bank includes East Jerusalem. This is the territory occupied in 1967. The two areas will be connected by a safe passage, something that's actually in the Interim Accord between Israel and the Palestinians but hasn't yet happened. The separation of Gaza and the West Bank has contributed to the political separation that we're going through right now.

Are there other factors?

The state of security. Militias shouldn't be allowed to operate in Gaza. Non-violence has tremendous power. It has worked so many other times in history: In the U.S. civil rights movements and in countries like India gaining independence, and I believe it will work for us, too.

Coffee Party of Canada launches

► Calls for voters to use java breaks to prod governments and big business to give better service
► Movement comes as corporate tax cuts, privatization shaping up to be major election issues

The mythical "Tim Hortons voters" of Canada now have a political movement to call their own — the Coffee Party of Canada, for those who want better service from their governments and big business.

It's not a tea party movement, nor is it affiliated with the U.S. version of the Coffee Party.

In fact, the Coffee Party is not a political party at all — it's an offshoot of Democracy Watch, a long-time Ottawa ethics advocacy group led by Duff Conacher, pictured.

► The Coffee Party is a off shoot of Democracy Watch, led by advocate Duff Conacher, pictured.

Sign of the times

Since the banning of corporate donations to political parties, federal politicians may now feel free to be less cosy with big business.

► Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff described big corporations — once a large source of Liberal donations — as the "richest and most powerful" interests in the country, at odds with the interests of Canadian families.

"If Canadians spent as much time writing politicians about their concerns as they spend lining up to buy coffee, we would have the good, democratic governments and responsible big businesses we want," the Coffee Party declared in its debut news release yesterday.

Conacher says the Coffee Party, to be launched today, will be composed of citizens who want to make "governments and big businesses operate more honestly, ethically, openly, representatively, efficiently and effectively."

The Canadian version of the Coffee Party wants voters simply to use their coffee breaks to press for more accountability from governments and business.

"So please gather a few friends together, make or buy some coffee, and no matter what problem concerns, you help make Canadian governments and corporations solve your problem by writing letters, printing out the "I'm Voting for Good Government" sticker, donating and telling everyone you know about CoffeeParty.ca," the news release states.

Pollster Nik Nanos says corporations may be emerging as a target of public antipathy because of high-profile failures in recent years that have resulted in economic chaos, unemployment and lost pensions, on both sides of the Canada-U.S. border.

"Things like Enron, the demise of Nortel and the banking crisis have severely undermined the confidence that many Canadians have in big business," Nanos says.

Blast at funeral triggers fury in Iraq

► Car bomb targets Shiite area ► Iraqi forces pelted with sticks and stones ► 48 killed, 121 wounded

A car bomb exploded outside a funeral tent in a mainly Shiite area of Baghdad Thursday, killing at least 48 people.

It was the latest in a wave of attacks that have triggered fury over the government's inability to stop the bloodshed.

As ambulances raced to the scene and Iraqi helicopters buzzed overhead, young men enraged over the security lapse pelted Iraqi forces with sticks and stones.

The car that exploded about 2 p.m. Thursday had been parked with the vehicles of other mourners, several metres away from the funeral tent, so it wouldn't raise suspicion, police said.

Oral tissues are living tissues, and they have the same nutritional requirements as any other living tissue in our bodies. When adequate amounts of nutritious foods are not available, oral health can be compromised by nutrient-deficiency diseases. Poor nutrition affects the entire immune system, increasing one's susceptibility to many health problems.

Eating a variety of foods as part of a well-balanced diet may not only improve one's dental health, but increasing fibre and vitamin intake can also reduce the risk of other diseases including diabetes and cardiovascular disease. It's easy to develop good eating habits that follow the recommendations of reputable organizations and publications like the Canada Food Guide. Make a habit of choosing foods from the five basic food groups: fruits, vegetables, breads and cereals, milk and dairy products, meat, chicken, fish or beans. Try to avoid fad diets that limit or eliminate entire food groups that can result in vitamin or mineral deficiencies.

Older, edentulous (having no teeth) people who may have had a stroke with the accompanying chewing & swallowing problems are at a significantly greater nutritional risk, particularly if they are living alone and/or are on a limited income.

Double refined foods including bread, crackers, cookies, doughnuts, pastries etc., contain carbohydrates rich in starch and other compounds which easily convert into simpler components and cause tooth decay.

These days, too many children & teens are consuming "fast-foods" found in the proliferation of fast-food restaurants and vending machines that are not only harmful to their bodies, but also have significant adverse effects on teeth as well. These "junk" foods contribute to a "toxic" food environment because many products lack the necessary vitamins & minerals and can destroy tooth structure from its molecular levels, creating conditions for dental cavity formation.

Even "diet" soft drinks that don't contain sugar, do contain both carbonic and phosphoric acids that can directly destroy tooth enamel, particularly if the teeth are periodically exposed to diet soft drinks throughout the day. You can keep your mouth moist and refreshed by drinking lots of water. If you have a dry mouth, try using sugarless candy or gum to stimulate your saliva because saliva protects both hard and soft oral tissues.

Not sure how your present diet may be affecting your oral health or that of someone you know? Why not talk with one of our doctors or dental hygienists next time you visit us for a check-up?

Yours for better dental health,

Seeking Spain's lost children

► Baby-stealing network involved doctors, nurses, midwives, nuns, group says ► 30,000 believed taken

Hundreds of Spaniards searching for lost children or parents filed a petition on Thursday with Spain's attorney general to investigate allegations newborns were stolen from their mothers and sold to other families, a practice they say went on for decades.

Antonio Barroso, 41, said he found out only three years ago that the parents who raised him were not his biological parents. He said he learned he was sold at birth to another family for 200,000 pesetas. That's the equivalent of $1,638, worth more at the time.

It is well documented that in the immediate wake of Spain's 1936-39 civil war, babies and children were taken from women who supported the Republican side that was defeated by the right-wing forces of

Gen. Francisco Franco.

Enrique Vila, lawyer for the petitioners' association, ANADIR, said this politically motivated punishment transformed purely into a moneymaking scheme that lasted well past Spain's return to democracy in 1978, and until the mid-1990s.

Investigating magistrate Baltasar Garzon has put the number of stolen children at 30,000. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'WTF?' Palin slams State of Union speech

► Obama's economic proposals a 'bullet train to bankruptcy' ► 'Hokey-changeey thing' not working

Sarah Palin reacted with scorn to U.S. President Barack Obama's State of the Union address this week, attacking his economic policies and "recycled rhetoric," which she says no longer inspires hope.

In a lengthy missive on Facebook, Palin made no mention of the call for unity that Obama made in his speech on Tuesday, and focused instead on his economic proposals, calling his ideas for investments in areas such as high-speed rail "half-baked," and a "bullet train to bankruptcy."

Obama, she insisted, doesn't understand that debt is the biggest problem facing the United States, ► Sarah Palin: in fighting form.

and his address can be boiled down to the message: "The era of big government is here as long as I am, so help me pay for it."

She noted the speech was dubbed "Winning the Future," and suggested that the first letters of that title, "WTF," is an apt way to describe what Obama had to say.

Meanwhile, former California governor Arnold Schwarzenegger took a pot-shot at Palin during his speaking tour of major Canadian cities this week.

"Can you imagine Sarah Palin being naked? No, don't imagine that," he said, referring to the differences between him and other high-profile politicians who have given speeches in Canada. He was speaking Wednesday in Toronto. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ANTHROPOLOGY

Tracking earliest movement

Modern humans may have left Africa thousands of years earlier than previously thought, turning right and heading across the Red Sea into Arabia rather than following the Nile to a northern exit, an international team of researchers says.

Stone tools discovered in the United Arab Emirates indicate the presence of modern humans between 100,000 and 125,000 years ago, the researchers report in Friday's edition of the journal Science.

While science has generally accepted an African origin for humans, anthropologists have long sought to understand the route taken as these populations spread into Asia, the Far East and Europe.

Miami teen admits art expression

The rumours can stop swirling: The baby grand piano that turned up on a Miami sandbar was burned to tatters by New Year's revellers, then brought to its new home by a television designer's teenage son who said Thursday he hoped the idea might help him get into a prestigious art school. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Judge rules estate can't sue Iran

The family of a slain Canadian photojournalist has received mixed news in its attempt to sue the Iranian government over her death. A Quebec judge ruled this week that the estate of Zahra Kazemi can't sue Iran but he said her son's case should be allowed to continue.

Gorilla walking like human sparks viral hit

CONTRIBUTED BY PORT LYMPNE WILD ANIMAL PARKS

► An 18-second piece of footage of a Silverback gorilla walking upright like a human has become a YouTube sensation.

► Not evolutionarily advanced but has family's 'standing-up gene,' says keeper

The other gorillas don't even bother to look up when Ambam starts sauntering around like a human.

But humans are astounded by the 21-year-old Silverback ambling on his hind legs and have turned him into a YouTube celebrity in just two days.

"As far back as I remember, he's been able to do it," Phil Ridges, a gorilla keeper at the Port Lympne Wild Animal Park just south of Dover in England tells the Star.

Ambam's dad could walk upright and two sisters can as well, but none of them are quite as good or adventurous at it as Ambam, says Ridges.

At about 480 pounds of flexible muscle, he's the biggest gorilla at the animal park, a charity run by The Aspinall Foundation. But he's not a show-off, his keeper says.

"He's a smashing little guy. He's not someone that covets attention. He's very sweet natured and he has great respect in the group."

That said, "Ambam lives with five other adult males and they could care less" when he starts walking on his hind legs.

Food and curiosity propel him: trying to get a glimpse of the food bucket arriving, seeing over the enclosure ledge or making off with peanut butter covered sticks in both hands.

But he's not trained and doesn't stand up on cue, to the chagrin of camera crews lined up Thursday.

All gorillas can stand upright, says Ridges. But they just don't very often, except for Ambam and his family.

Layton lists proposals for federal budget

► NDP leader calls on Conservatives to cancel multimillion-dollar stealth fighter purchase

Jack Layton says he has no "bottom line" over what has to be in the federal budget to ensure NDP support and avoid an election — but he faces calls from his caucus to play hardball on corporate taxes.

During a break in the party's winter caucus retreat, Layton said he has put forward a list of proposals that he wants to see in the budget, and is waiting for some kind of response from the Harper government.

But he said there is no make-or-break issue that would lead the NDP to either support or reject the budget, expected in March. "We'll look at the full budget and see what it contains," Layton said.

He is looking for a $700-million increase in the guaranteed income supplement for seniors, a more generous Canada Pension Plan, the elimination of federal sales tax on home heating, and the replenishment of funds for environmental upgrades to homes.

"We've laid these ideas out there, and we'll see what the government does by way of response," Layton said.

But finance critic and deputy leader Thomas Mulcair is more categorical. He said he and the caucus would have a lot of trouble supporting a budget that did not put a halt to planned corporate tax cuts.

Moroccan visit centred around unrest in region

► PM addressed reports of Tunisian regime's family in Montreal ► 'They are not welcome': Harper

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has waded into the Arab world's unruly pro-democracy movement during a stop in Morocco that was supposed to focus on free trade.

Harper couldn't avoid the sensitive subject of popular uprisings even as he worked to strengthen Canadian relations with Morocco's moderate monarchy.

In between royal salutes, Harper held talks with the country's appointed prime minister on Thursday to formally launch free-trade negotiations. But trade talk was overshadowed by the unrest that has swept from Tunisia through Egypt, Jordan and Yemen.

► Stephen Harper

With reports that the billionaire brother-in-law of ousted Tunisian leader Zine El Abidine Ben Ali may be in Canada, Harper could not remain above the fray.

"Canada will use all tools at its disposal to co-operate with the international community in dealing with members of the former regime," the prime minister said.

At a news conference with Abbas El Fassi in Rabat, Harper acknowledged that he and the prime minister discussed the political situation at some length and Harper said he valued Morocco's perspective on "developments in this part of the world."

Harper appeared to be caught off guard the previous day when he was asked about various popular uprisings in the Arab world.

New PlayStation Portable set for release this year

► Popularity of smartphones such as iPhone a possible threat ► iPod, iPad also being used to play games

Sony said Thursday the successor to its PlayStation Portable machine will go on sale late this year, offering the quality of a home console in an on-the-go machine boasting a screen double the size of smart phones.

The NPG, short for next generation portable, has a touch panel in the front and touch pads in the back to allow players to tap on the machine to move images, in addition to the usual buttons and switches.

It also offers a third-generation wireless connection plus the already available WiFi, allowing for more social networking and downloads. Its five-inch screen is OLED — a different technology from liquid-crystal display — for good colour and image quality about four times better than the current PSP.

Sony said gamers will be able to play games they had been playing on the PlayStation 3 home console without feeling any drop in quality.

Kazuo Hirai, who heads Sony Corp.'s gaming section, proudly held the shiny black machine to cameras, declaring: "This is the NPG."

He did not give a price, regional release plans or other details.

"We will pursue the ultimate in entertainment," said Hirai, president and chief executive of Sony Computer Entertainment Inc., Tokyo-based Sony's gaming unit. "We want to create a revolution in your hands." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

England proposing selling off forests

England's best-loved and oldest public forests could be sold off to private companies under government plans proposed Thursday. The sale could raise up to $397 million for the government, but it provoked ire from nature lovers who say the move would shut people out.

► Calgary's Dan Bennett has been fielding hundreds of inquiries about his song Lights, Camera, Action.

5 MINUTES WITH: 8-HOUR HITMAKERS

As first reported by Metro in Calgary last week, Calgary artist Dan Bennett and friend Dave Wallace of Victoria co-created a song titled Lights, Camera, Action in just eight hours to expose "unoriginal" hit music on today's charts.

What's happened since the story ran?

DB: It got posted on Reddit and it became the No. 1 video on there and then it became the No. 1 video on YouTube (last) Friday.
DW: I couldn't even keep up with emails. I have 1,800 emails and it was getting picked up by ... all these other sites. It just blew up.

Did you expect this kind of exposure?

DB: No. We thought we'd maybe get another 1,000 views, but stuff goes viral and it goes crazy.
DW: No way. For it to go as far as it is now, for me to be getting messages from people in Sweden saying they love it — that it's inspiring them — it's blowing my mind.

Part of the reason you did this was to show how easy it is to make a hit song. Now, with all of this success, do you feel like you're selling out?

DB: No. It's a thought-provoking topic that people

"It's a thought-provoking topic that people want to discuss."

want to discuss. The thing is (Kiss bassist) Gene Simmons contacted us yesterday to make a group that would be about that (kind of music) and if we did that it would be selling out.

Are you serious?

DB: Yeah, someone from his record label sent us a message ... It's pretty cool when one of the main people of rock calls, but at the same time we don't want to change our style for anyone.

DW: People are trying to jump on to this success, our 15 minutes of Internet fame, but it's not going to happen. I don't see much coming from this.

So, where do you go from here?

DB: Just keep doing what we're doing, just keep trying to make innovative music.

DW: I have got lots of cool offers from people, lots of career stuff that I can look into.

Surveillance video shows drug smugglers using an old invention as a new way to move marijuana across the border to Arizona from Mexico.

National Guard troops operating a remote surveillance system at the Naco Border Patrol Station say they observed several people preparing a catapult and launching packages over the fence late last week.

A Mexican army officer said the three-metre tall catapult was found about 20 metres from the U.S. border on a flatbed towed by a sports utility vehicle.

The officer said the catapult was capable of

There is a new exhibition in the city that gives you an opportunity to experience the Arctic and Antarctic in just one day.

The Ends Of The Earth: From Polar Bears To Penguins exhibit starts today at the Canadian Museum of Nature and features hands-on activities and interesting artifacts from the lands of both regions.

Visitors will learn about the science being conducted there and what these regions can tell us about climate change.

The exhibit is divided into five parts: Arctic; Antarctic; polar profiles; explorers' theatre; and polar spirit.

Catch the 6,000-square-foot exhibit until April 10.

Devil may care

- Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of The Rite
- Anthony Hopkins is the best thing about this not-so-scary thriller

Richard Crouse: Mark, if there was an after-school special about exorcism, The Rite would be it. It's earnest, has a message and there's even a teenage pregnancy angle. I just wish it was scarier. It's freaky but could really use a few more pea soup and head spinning scenes.

Mark Breslin: A few months ago, Hollywood gave us a movie called The Last Exorcism. Aw, come on. They promised! Really, Richard, I found The Rite to be a well directed, well acted piece of hokey. If you're a non-believer, there is nothing in this movie to scare you.

RC: Even if you are a believer there's not much there to scare you. Exorcism movies

Plot synopsis

► Based on the book The Making of a Modern Exorcist, The Rite once again sees Anthony Hopkins in "personification of evil" mode, but just for a few like this need lots of pea soup and head spinning. Instead we get a demon mule with red eyes. Seriously? It's freaky but not scary. Luckily Anthony Hopkins brings some — ahem — spirit to the proceedings. But is he too much? What did you think?

MB: Hopkins can never do wrong in my book. He is wonderfully entertaining, especially in the second half of the picture when he goes off the deep end.

minutes. He's Father Lucas, a veteran priest and expert in exorcism, who leads a new priest into a wild satanic showdown.

► Ratings:
Richard's: ●●●
Mark's: ●½

He's one of the two things I liked about the movie — the other being the actual exorcism scenes, which had a genuine intensity to them. And were there any other actors in the film that even registered for you?

RC: In a word, no. I found most of the other actors rather bland. Even Rutger "Hobo with a Shotgun" Hauer, who can usually be counted on to add a dash or two of crazy, is unusually subdued, and Ciarán Hinds, usually a majestic figure on film, fades into the background. There's no question, it's Hopkins' movie, but I sometimes felt he was acting in a different movie than everyone else.

MB: And the movie, though not poorly made, seemed beneath Hopkins' usual high standards. In fact, even by the generally low bar that's set for exorcism movies, I thought that The Rite was just...wrong.

RC: Yeah, I have very little sympathy for this devil as well. I tried to image the movie without Hopkins, for better and for worse, and when I did there wasn't anything left. He really exercises his exorcisms here and that's the only real reason to see the movie.

MAINTAINING THEMES, PRESENTING SCENES

French animator prefers to draw on traditional style

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

French animator Sylvain Chomet, the brain behind the quirky, nearly dialogue-free The Triplets of Belleville, is up to his old tricks with The Illusionist, which was nominated for a Golden Globe for Best Animated Film (it lost to Toy Story 3).

Based on a screenplay from the late Jacques Tati, the film follows an aging music hall magician as he deals with the changing cultural scene of the late 1950s.

Chomet sat down to talk with Metro about the problems with computer animation and falling in love with Edinburgh.

You're still committed to hand-drawn animation rather than Pixar's computer-generated style. Why is that?

It's very simple. If you take any kind of very old thing — take The Jungle Book, for example — that still stands. You can show that to children and it's very beautiful. But take the first Toy Story.

It's already very difficult to watch because the technology has changed so much. You look at that and it looks badly done. When you see the humans in the first Toy Story, it's disastrous.

Now you have children, 12 years old, you give them a computer and they do better things than that.

Most of The Illusionist takes place in Edinburgh, which wasn't in the original script. Why the change?

I first went to Edinburgh when there was a premiere

of my film at the festival there, and I took the train from Paris because I don't fly. I thought it was the most beautiful city I'd ever seen. And I really liked the people as well.

You also set up production for the film in Edinburgh. How was that experience?

To be honest, we didn't have any kind of help from Scotland. It was a real nightmare. ... It's nothing to do with the people of Scotland. I just think their civil servants are not effective at all.

Blue Valentine hits a nerve

Genre: Drama

Director: Derek Cianfrance

Stars: Ryan Gosling, Michelle Williams, John Doman

Whether one thinks Blue Valentine is a sincere meditation on the fragility of relationships or an actors' showcase for Ryan Gosling and Michelle Williams, there's no doubt it works: juxtaposing the (possible) end of a marriage with halcyon scenes of its beginnings, director Derek Cianfrance understands how to hit a nerve.

There are flaws (like an overplayed blowout argument in a hospital and an obtrusive score by indie heroes Grizzly Bear) but the sheer power of the performances carries the day.

ADAM NAYMAN

The Mechanic

Genre: Action

Director: Simon West

Stars: Jason Statham, Ben Foster, Donald Sutherland

Jason Statham is possibly the last hard man action hero left in a genre superseded by superhero theatrics. Boasting a shiny head and a grizzled voice made to spit out one-liners, the actor is a throwback to a time when efficient action/thrillers like The Mechanic dominated the popcorn crowd. The film is hardly an original spin on the genre, but hits all the necessary beats without wasting a second of screen time or attempting to transcend its B-movie origins. It's simply an update of an old Charles Bronson movie about a professional assassin forced to kill his former mentor and then train the victim's son out of loyalty. Nothing more, nothing less.

The Mechanic requires zero brainpower, but delivers its thrills so effectively that it's hard not to be seduced by its mindless pleasures.

Join us on February 10, 2011 at Lago Bar|Grill|View for a decadent evening of chocolate, food, wine and fun.

Chocolatier Roch Fournier (Rochef Chocolatier) returns to defend his title as the winner of last year's competition against Auntie Loo's Treats and Pasticceria Gelateria Italiana. Judging the competition are Ron Eade (Ottawa Citizen), Chef Hervé Chabert (Le Cordon Bleu) and Heinrich Stubbe (Stubbe Chocolates).

Sponsored by Truffle Treasures and MC'd by Jen Traplin (Live 88.5), the evening will include a cocktail and sampling hour, a silent auction featuring items for your loved one, ending with the return of the highly anticipated chocolate competition where members of the Ottawa Firefighters' Association will ensure all guests have an opportunity to sample each sumptuous creation. Chocolate will abound throughout the evening!

► Natascha McElhone and David Duchovny in Californication.

Going for laughs on Californication

► Actress Natascha McElhone takes on comic role in Showtime series after a career of mostly serious roles

Natascha McElhone faces dual challenges as Karen on Californication.

For one thing, McElhone is gorgeous: willowy, ethereal, with lofty cheekbones. So how is she supposed to make viewers believe that Karen's boyfriend, Hank (David Duchovny), would habitually stray from that fine a woman?

Meanwhile: How to portray Karen as a character the audience respects, even as she welcomes him back, over and over, from his dalliances?

Somehow, McElhone is pulling it off. She makes codependency enchanting on this raw, outrageous Showtime comedy, which, in its fourth season (with a fifth recently announced), airs Sundays at 9 p.m. EST.

In the past, the 39-year-old British native has played characters as varied as an artist's muse (Surviving Picasso) to an Irish terrorist's lover (Devil's Own). But until Californication, she hadn't had much chance at comedy.

Her first contact with the show's creator, Tom Kapinos, was a phone call.

"I had to make him laugh on the phone," she says. "And we laughed!"

From Dallas cheerleader to Fairly Legal actress

► Sarah Shahi stars in new Showcase drama

Feel there are too many doctors, lawyers and police officers on TV?

Sensing a backlash, networks are starting to fudge things a bit, introducing new shows featuring doctors who are more like Indiana Jones-esque jungle medics (ABC's Off The Map) or fired lawyers who set up practice in a shoe store (NBC's Harry's Law).

Another such show is Fairly Legal, a new U.S. cable drama premiering Feb. 2 in Canada on Showcase. The series, set in San Francisco but shot in Vancouver, stars Sarah Shahi (The L Word) as Kate Reed, an ex-lawyer who quit her late father's high-powered law firm to become a mediator.

Reed is an independent kind of gal. For one thing, she lives on a houseboat out in the harbour. She has the occasional sleepover with her ex-hubby Patrick (Michael Trucco from Battlestar Galactica) but she's not looking to rekindle an old relationship.

"The only place these two can agree is underneath the sheets," says Shahi. Her character may be a mediator, but don't ask her to work out conflict in her personal life.

Instead, Reed throws herself into her work, even though she hates her boss Lauren (Virginia Williams from The O.C.), an icy blond boss who just happens to be Reed's wicked stepmother. When Reed's mobile rings, it lights up emerald green and plays the wicked witch of the west theme from The Wizard of Oz.

A Texas native of Persian descent (real name: Aahoo Jahansouz Shahi), Shahi admits she stumbled — or perhaps cart-wheeled — into acting. She tried out for the Dallas Cowboys cheerleading squad because she thought that might lead to a shot on Saturday Night Live. She made the cut, but don't ask her who is in this year's Super Bowl. She leaves the football picks these days to her actor husband, Steve Howey (Reba).

Her breakthrough role came playing a Mexican-American on The L Word, which was also shot in Vancouver. She was delighted to return to British Columbia last summer and fall to shoot the first 10-episode season of Fairly Legal. "I love Vancouver," she says. "It's definitely my home away from home."

The White Lies return

► Hyped trio White Lies are back with a new album, Ritual, and a tour

Two years ago London-trio White Lies released their debut album To Lose My Life that became an immediate success.

Their music has been compared to Joy Division and Interpol.

This week their second album was released and they are heading out on tour.

"I felt no pressure when we were recording the album but now when it is about to be released I feel a bit stressed because we can't influence how it will be received," says singer Harry McVeigh, 22.

Base player Charles Cave, 22, wishes they'd had more time to write songs.

"I wish we could be like The Knife and only release albums now and then," he says. "Now we wrote 12 songs and 10 of them ended up on the album. We really like The Knife. They influenced us to move more toward an electronic sound."

Breezy's new beginning

► With 3 Grammy nods, a No. 1 song and an upcoming CD, focus has returned to music for Chris Brown

Two years ago, the Grammy Awards appeared to mark the end of Chris Brown's career.

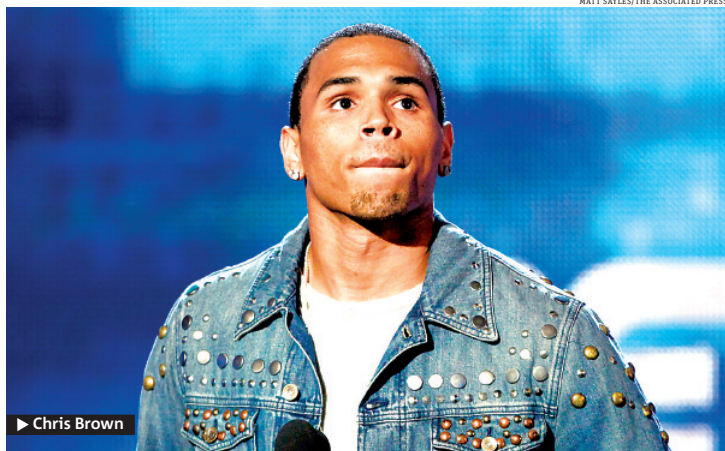

This year, it is serving as a new beginning.

Life for the multi-platinum sensation dramatically changed on the eve of music's biggest night in 2009, when he assaulted then-girlfriend Rihanna and both were forced to bow out of the ceremony.

In the months that followed, he saw his reputation tarnished. He had to plead guilty to a felony, and his comeback CD, Graffiti, was a commercial disappointment.

But with the success of his brush-off anthem Deuces, three nominations at this year's Grammys (including best contemporary R&B album), an upcoming CD and an Australian tour in April, the focus on Chris Brown has returned to his music, without adding the Rihanna-prefix.

"We feel good now that everybody's talking about his music, which is exactly what Chris' intention is," said Tom Carrabba, the executive vice-president and general manager of Jive Label Group. Brown's home label since he released his first album at age 16. (Brown's representative said the singer would not be interviewed for this story and, as of now, would not be attending the awards).

Carrabba says Brown has a newfound confidence, which he believes is the reason for the singer's current success.

"I think when he was a little bit younger he was still trying to find his way a little bit and fine-tune his craft. But I think over the last two years he's absolutely developed a confidence and is very secure in his decision-making process," Carrabba said.

Brown, now 21, is serving five years of probation after pleading guilty to felony assault.

service and for almost finishing his domestic violence counselling.

Over the past year, Brown has released a flurry of music.

After Graffiti, released in December 2009, failed to create a buzz for the singer like his past albums, Brown put out various mixtapes.

One of those, Fan of a Fan, a collaboration with rapper Tyga, featured Deuces, a mid-tempo tune that hit No. 1 on Billboard's R&B/Hip-Hop songs chart for nine weeks; the platinum-selling single peaked at No. 14 on the Hot 100 chart.

The music video for the song was No. 1 on BET's Top 100 videos of 2010.

Brown, who has acted in movies such as the popular Stomp the Yard, also hit No. 1 at the box office last year as part of the ensemble cast in the heist film Takers, which also starred rapper T.I. and Idris Elba. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS sault for the attack on Rihanna in the early morning hours before the 2009 Grammys.

The Virginia native was commended in November for completing more than one-third of the required 180 days of community passion ended up at No. 1, selling just 44,000 copies. Aggregate sales were 4.9 million units. That's beyond ugly. Things aren't any better in Canada with sales trailing last year by around five per cent already. And last year was rubbish.

Sales of digital releases and vinyl are leveling off: While digital sales were up significantly around the globe in 2010 — six per cent or so — sales growth is starting to level off.

Global recorded music revenue fell about nine per cent last year.

Dearth (death?) of rock: The anemic 1-2 finish of Cake and Cage the Elephant on the Billboard charts a couple of weeks ago, was the first time we saw two rock records at the top since — well, I can't remember when. Scan any album chart in the world and you'll see precious few rock releases in the top 50.

Rock is almost completely absent from the singles charts.

Hope is on the way — Coldplay, U2, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Soundgarden and other superstar acts all have releases in the pipeline, which might get the public excited — but for the moment, the idea of rock being the prevailing style of popular music is over.

WORRISOME DAYS

We're not even a month in and 2011 has not been kind to the recording industry.

Without getting all apocalyptic about it, there's enough going on to make any observer wonder if the Mayans weren't talking about the world of music.

CD sales are off to a bad, bad start. The year started with Taylor Swift holding on to the No. 1 position on the Billboard album charts by selling just 52,000 copies of Speak Now. That entire week saw just 5.4 million units sold across the entire U.S., an all-time low. And then it got worse.

Lohan fears paparazzi

► Forced to call 9-1-1 on aggressive photographers after being chased

Lindsay Lohan is so fed up with the paparazzi following her that she is now getting the police involved.

The actress called 9-1-1 after growing "scared and frustrated" with photographers who forced her into a "high-speed chase," according to Radar Online.

Lohan may be trying to build a case for a restraining order against one photographer in particular.

"One of the photographers was the same paparazzo who followed her when she was at the Betty Ford Center in Palm Springs," a source says. "He drives a Prius with tinted windows and follows her everywhere she goes, often speeding and running up to her when she stops at traffic lights. It's dangerous and stalking."

Federer's run over at Australian Open

MARK KOLBE/GETTY IMAGES

► Roger Federer lost to Novak Djokovic on Thursday.

► Djokovic will face either Ferrer or Murray in the men's final

First Rafael Nadal, now Roger Federer.

The 16-time Grand Slam title-winning Federer was knocked out of the Australian Open 7-6 (3), 7-5, 6-4 on Thursday by 2008 champion Novak Djokovic.

The talk before the tournament was of a blockbuster final between Nadal, going for his fourth straight Grand Slam win, and Federer, who was aiming for his fifth Australian title and perhaps the only player who could stop him.

Instead, after Nadal was eliminated by fellow Spaniard David Ferrer in an injury-induced straight-set loss Wednesday, and now Federer heading home, it will be Djokovic in the final against either Andy Murray or Ferrer — they play their semifinal on Friday.

"I'm looking forward to watching that match tomorrow from my bed with some popcorn," Djokovic said. "David played a fantastic match against Rafa even though Rafa was struggling obviously with injuries."

"They are in top shape. Andy has been in top shape on this court. It's a Grand Slam final, anything can happen. I believe in myself, it's really one of the best matches I've played in a while."

It will be the first time

Federer's all-time record against Djokovic.

since 2003 that Federer will not hold any of the four major titles and the first time that neither Nadal nor Federer will not feature in a Grand Slam final since the Australian Open in 2008, when Djokovic beat Jo-Wilfried Tsonga.

"I was ready for another two sets easily," Federer said. "Pity I couldn't push him there. Wish I could have won here for the fifth time, but it wasn't possible tonight."

The finals scenario could open the door for Murray to become the first British Grand Slam singles champion since Fred Perry in 1936 when the final is played Sunday night at Rod Laver Arena. It is the second straight Grand Slam where Djokovic has knocked Federer out in the semis.

At last year's U.S. Open, the Serbian player saved match points before beating Federer in five sets to advance to the final against Nadal.

The last time Federer lost in straight sets to Djokovic in a major was here in 2008.

The last 2 years of my life has been extra special because of you Sapna. Thank you for making my birthday unforgettable...i am truly grateful for everthing you've done for me. You are kind and compassionate. My friend. Thank you! Q.D.B

Nesha Charles, I love you with all my heart. You are the greatest most amazing friend ever! I am incredibly blessed to have you in my life. Stay as sweet, kind, beautiful and loving as you are. Love you! JS

Hey j, I just wanted to let you know that your way to cute for words, and no matter what I'm always there for you LOVE TOOPY

Dear Jel,
You are the most amazing girl ive ever met, I cant explain how happy I am with you. I hope we last a lifetime. LOVE, LOBSTER

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Any-one who tries to pull the wool over your eyes will be lucky to still be standing by the end of the day. Every now and again you have to remind people not to take liberties.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you allow others to distract you today, you won't get much done and that would be a shame as you have so much going for you at the moment. You don't have to be side-tracked by petty issues.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Don't worry about the rights and wrongs of what you are planning to do because you are under a cosmic protection that means you can get away with almost anything.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Why are you holding back when you don't have to? Could it be your subconscious is warning you of an obstacle of which your conscious mind is not yet aware? Proceed with caution.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 When are you going to step up and take control of a situation that only you can resolve? The longer you let others call the shots, the longer it will drag on. Leo is the sign of leadership, lead.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 There is good and bad in everyone. If you keep that thought in mind today, you should be able to stay on friendly terms with just about everyone. Try not to be judgmental. It never leads to anything positive.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Think twice before you reject an offer simply because you will have to pay for it. Sometimes, you have to give some to get some, and this is certainly the kind of deal you will benefit from in the long-term.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 The more others try to tell you that what you are planning is never going to work, the more determined you will be to prove them wrong — and you will.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You have fallen into a rut and need to find a way to liven things up a bit. In true Sagittarian fashion it won't be a small way — you'll break all the rules. A more enjoyable groove awaits.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You can't always be on the winning side and what happens today will remind you that success tastes much better when you suffer a few failures. It's all good experience.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Decide on a course of action and stick to it. The more you change your mind about what it is you want to do, the less likely it is you will ever get started. Do something.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Some people can be carelessly hurtful with the things they say, but you don't have to respond in kind. You're a good enough actor to pretend you are not in the least bit upset.
